The symphony of our years began so slowly with many a false start and nervous moment.

We were so young, and everything was fresh and new . . .

But gradually our halting fingers grew more skilled;
our minds and thoughts grew sharper, clearer as though we peered through some marvelous pair of enchanted spectacles.

Our music grew
as we grew . . .
until now, at last

for one brief, glorious instant
the music seems like something half-alive, something that stirs itself awake . . .

And then . . . far, far too quickly
it is over. For a moment we stand together, enraptured by something larger than ourselves and then . . . the mood breaks.

We part . . .

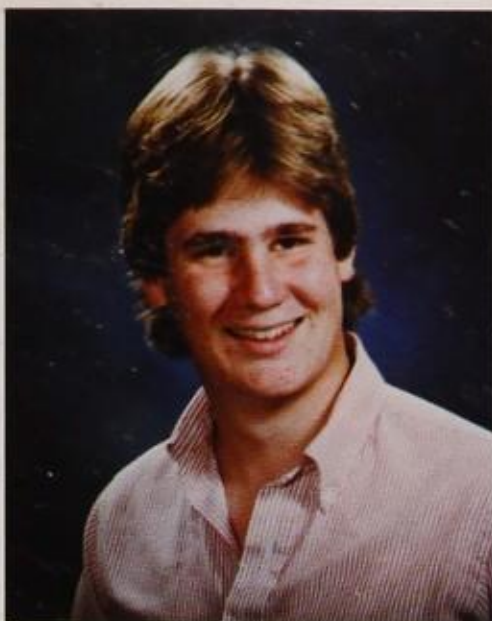

but there is no sadness

Because we know . . . we know! . . . that we will play again.

Class History

We ventured into these hallowed halls for the first time on a September morning of 1982. Although uneasy, some of us already could sense the greatness that was to come for our class. Others, however, were merely preoccupied with the task of finding their respective homerooms. With smiling faces, upperclassmen told us of the fabulous swimming pool on the third floor.

Obviously, there were many new and exciting opportunities open to us here at East Greenwich High School. Without haste, we selected the class officers who would guide us through our stressful, yet memorable opening year. Dean Sullivan was named president, and the other officers included Kerry Fryer, Dave Sarazen, Tina Giorgio, and Patty Augustine.

Under the guidance of Mr. Levesque and Mr. Eastbrooks, we formulated our Homecoming plans. Kim McKenney and David Moone were elected class Homecoming queen candidate and escort. "E.G. Will Shine" was the lofty theme of our float.

As our sophomore year began, Mrs. D'Amario volunteered to serve as co-advisor along with Mr. Levesque. Fundraising was a necessity, and our magazine drive provided us with the money which future class activities would demand. President Debbie Messing, as well as officers Angie Macera, Dave Sarazen, Sue Donovan, Vicky Petteruti and Patty Augustine, led the preparations for the Homecoming festivities. For the first time, a "Spirit Week" was celebrated with an array of contests between the different classes and clubs. Our grand air-band act placed second. Patty Augustine, escorted by Jay Lynch, was our Homecoming queen candidate. The Sweetheart Dance, a wonderful and memorable experience for many young couples, was appropriately themed "On The Wings Of Love." The evening's climax was the crowning of Patty Augustine as Sweetheart Queen.

Newly-elected officers Dean Sullivan (president), Angie Macera, Anthony Caronia, Jay Lynch, Kerry Fryer, Debbie James, and Patty Augustine were ready and eager to prepare for the prom once junior year began. During Homecoming Week, our performance of "Summer Nights" copped us another second-place finish in the air-band competition. In addition, our queen candidate, Patty Augustine, was named second runner up. She was escorted by Tom MacDonald.

After the many labors of our advisors and officers, the Junior Prom arrived at long last. It proved to be an unforgettable evening for everyone, as the money from all that fundraising finally paid dividends. "Tender Years" was held at the elegant Quidnessett Country Club, where couples danced the night away to the tunes of the Chasers or walked leisurely along the balcony. From a court of eight, Patty Augustine was crowned Prom Queen.

When we selected officers for our senior year, we each "went somewhat berserk." Mike Kiernan, following in the footsteps of his brother, Tom, was elected senior class president. Also serving our class were Tina Giorgio, Anthony Caronia, Patty Augustine, Chris Sceery, Chris Hanley, and Dave Sarazen. Also, Mr. Metcalfe joined forces with Mrs. D'Amario in place of the departed Mr. Levesque. He vowed to help make the year the best one that any senior class had ever had.

In accordance with Mr. Metcalfe's prediction, we scored a mighty victory, as our team finished in first place during the last annual Homecoming Spirit Week. Our domination continued when Angie Macera, who was escorted by Dean Sullivan, was chosen Homecoming Queen.

The officers and advisors, shortly after the successful and profitable Welcome Freshman Dance, had begun the planning of senior activities and collection of dues. Soon came college applications, S.A.T.'s, acceptances and rejections, Award Night, the Senior Banquet on the Bay Queen, the class picnic, and Ivy Day — they each soared past us. Then, only one event remained. On June 14, 1986, with our commencement exercises completed, we departed from East Greenwich High School. A collection of dreammakers were now eager to attack all challenges which tomorrow would create.

The Crimson Portrays Cherished Memories

Under the outstanding direction of advisor Mr. Raymond Alfano and co-Editors-in-Chief Thomas Beale and Kenneth Knox, the Crimson once again exhibits the magic which has made it such a foundation of pride for the East Greenwich community. The recipient of the All-New England Award from the New England Scholastic Press Association ever since the birth of the honor, the yearbook recalls prized memories, as these experiences seem to spring to life from the pages of the book.

Yet, the success which has been achieved this year did not come without a tremendous amount of effort and dedication on the part of the entire staff. Due to their cooperation and sense of pride, fundraisers flourished and nerve-racking deadlines were triumphantly met.

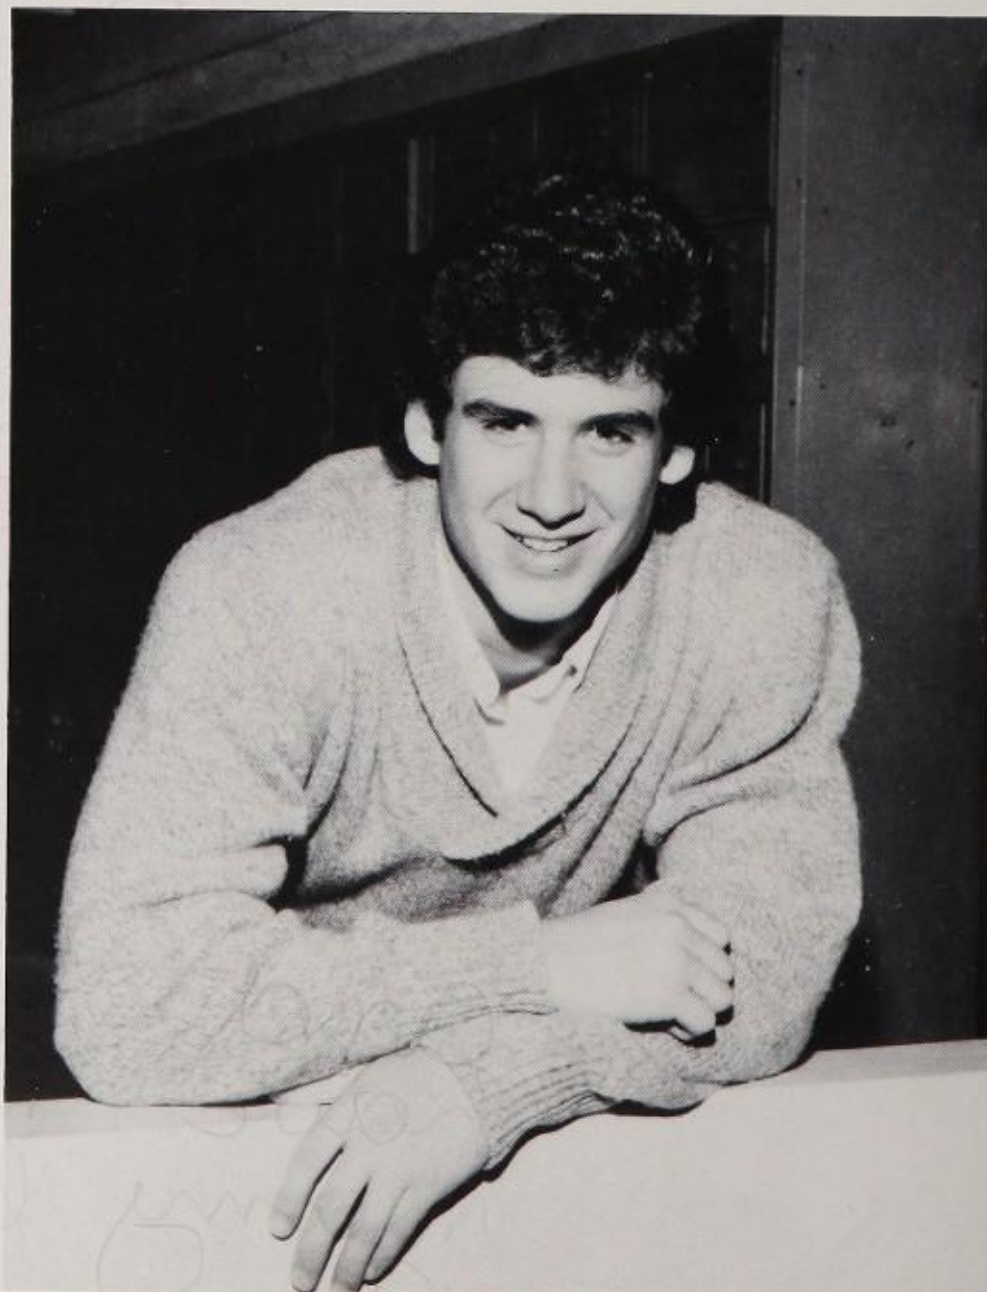

This year brought many unique ideas and exciting concepts to the book. This is indeed a tribute to the creativity of the editorial staff. However, one thing remains constant: The Crimson . . . is still the best.

Beale Receives Century III Recognition

Each year, the Century III Leaders program recognizes one outstanding senior who has demonstrated superior leadership ability. The selection process for the honor is a complicated one, and the criteria are demanding. Each candidate must complete an application form in which he emphasizes his leadership skills. Next, an essay written on an issue which America will face in the next century is required. Finally, an exam pertaining to current events, and prepared by Time-Life Magazine, is administered.

Thomas Beale has been selected as this year's representative from East Greenwich High School, and he will compete on the statewide level as well. Tom, a leader in every sense of the word, has truly been an involved individual. Co-Editor-In Chief, Tom is also President of Quill and Scroll and serves as social chairperson of the National Honor Society. Congratulations are extended to Tom with the hope that his future endeavors will prove equally successful.

Spectrum Stands Out In '85-'86

The Spectrum, the official voice of the student body, has had a truly memorable years. Circulation reached record highs. The quality and creativity of articles were unparalleled. Remarkably, the Spectrum even became the first high school paper to publish an issue in color.

The newspaper's success can be attributed to the hard work and dedication of both its editors and staff members. These individuals have strived to provide students with informative and entertaining reading, with special emphasis on school activities. Furthermore, a tremendous amount of time and energy was channeled into such aspects of the paper as photography, graphics, and layout.

The Spectrum, advised by Carlton Pinheiro, also held several profitable fundraisers, including two carnation sales, as well as candy cane and lollipop distribution. In addition, the Spectrum spirit team copped a third place finish in the Homecoming Week competition. It certainly appears likely that the standards of excellence which have been set this year will live on for many years to come.

Scott J. Nalibow, Editor-in-Chief.

Chris Young, Assistant Editor-in-Chief.

The National Honor Society

In May, 1985, a number of new members were inducted in the East Greenwich High school chapter of the National Honor Society. To be inducted, one has to meet requirements in academics, a 4.0 grade point average, leadership, service, and character. One thing the NHS stresses is the well rounded student who has maintained good grades, participated in activities, and given what he has to the community.

This year, the National Honor Society got involved in a series of projects to benefit others. Under the guidance of advisor, Pat Carlson, president, Sharon Reynolds and vice president, Becky Gibbons, the NHS launched a successful fooddrive with the Quill and Scroll. It was also responsible for the school's peer tutoring program.

If the NHS had a theme it would be diversity-in character as well as services.

Quill and Scroll Experiences a Fulfilling Year

Quill and Scroll, a worldwide honorary society for journalists at the high school level, is composed of those students who have performed in a superior fashion for either the Crimson or the Spectrum and are in the top one third of their class. Under the leadership of advisor Patricia Young and Thomas Beale, this elite society has ambitiously undertaken several projects. In November, together with the National Honor Society, its members assisted in sponsoring a Thanksgiving Food Drive. In addition, two sterling issues of the Aurora were published. This literary magazine enables students throughout the school to express themselves in the form of artwork, short stories, or poetry.

Student Council Completes Industrious Year

The Student Council actually began its preparations for this school year as early as last June. Perhaps, this is why this close-knit group worked so effectively together. Certainly, the Council has had a very memorable year.

This past summer, several members participated in workshops at the national convention in Pennsylvania. Later, the Student Council sponsored the third (and last) annual Spirit Week, which featured a quiz, a race, a surprise contest, and a splendiferous air band show, as well as a dance and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. There was a tremendous turnout for all of the week's activities.

In addition, the Council sponsored the Sadie Hawkins Dance and directed the famous St. Patrick's Day Volleyball Tournament. Also, members organized a blood drive, which gave many upperclassmen the opportunity to donate blood to those in need. Finally, this summer some members will attend this year's National Student Council Convention in Oklahoma.

Towards the beginning of the year, president Angie Macera said, "We're looking forward to a progressive year." Without a doubt, such expectations were achieved.

Business As Usual For The Avenger Band

This year, the East Greenwich High School band maintained its remarkable standard of excellence. Under the leadership of hardworking and determined director Vincent P. Mattera, the band travelled to various places and participated in several competitions. The concert and jazz ensemble, and choir performed at the University of New Hampshire, the University of Rhode Island, and the Berklee College of Music. They also took a trip to Virginia in order to compete in the Apple Blossom Festival, where they attained great success. They, in addition, provided exciting halftime shows at home football games.

The Avenger band is well-known throughout the state of Rhode Island and all over the East Coast. In addition to the superb instruction of Mr. Mattera, this program also possesses a vast array of talented musicians, many of whom made All-State Band.

After the wonderful honor of being selected to participate in last year's Inaugural parade, our band has continued to uphold its fine reputation.

Foreign Imports Arrive in East Greenwich

East Greenwich High School welcomed with open arms three exchange students: Alex Kaufmann and Martina Lechler both from Germany, and Maria Aracil from Spain.

Martina's and Alex's presence was enjoyed for six months, while Maria's full year stay ended with commencement activities. While the three were introduced to various aspects of American culture, they were also able to expand and strengthen their knowledge of the English language. However, perhaps the greatest rewards that the three students received were the lasting friendships and memories of life in America. We learned a great deal from our foreign friends, who have left their mark on our school. They will truly be missed.

The Drama Club Continues Its Trend of Success

This year, the drama club continued to live up to its reputation of outstanding performance. Under the direction of James Metcalfe and former student Marianne Sarazen, the drama club put on two musicals and a dramatic comedy in the past year.

These polished performances consisted of the energenic "Grease," wholesome "Meet Me In St. Louis," and classic "Peter Pan." These performances were the culmination of long hours of acting, dancing, and singing rehearsals. Yes, it was hard work, but it was worth the effort. Exclamations such as "It was so much fun," and "I'm sorry it's over" could be heard by members at the end of each wonderful performance. The drama club and its directors and tech crew should be commended for its pattern of success.

"Meet Me In St. Louis"

This fall, the drama club turned in another outstanding performance in their production of "Meet Me In St. Louis." Veterans as well as talented newcomers comprised the cast this time around. Set in St. Louis, the action takes place in the home of the Smith family at the opening of the 1904 World's Fair. The Smiths, who are extremely fond of their hometown, are trying to figure out a way to cope with the upsetting news that they must move to New York.

Chaos breaks out in the Smith home as the children, played by Debra Messing, Deborah James, Tracey Churilla, Christine Deeb, and Robert Russo, desperately try to convince their parents to stay. Fine performances by these students provided for some hilarious scenes. The performances of newcomer Heather Thompson as well as veteran Susan Donovan and Mike Watson, should not be overlooked. Guiding these fine actors and actresses and making the production possible, was Mr. James Metcalfe, whose superb directing job came through in yet another fine drama club production.

Rydell Students Invade E.G.H.S. Auditorium

The essence of the Fifties was brought to life in the East Greenwich High School 'Players' fabulous production of the hit musical Grease. Poodle skirts, jitterbugging, Fabian, and a '56 T-Bird were instrumental in transporting the audience back to this celebrated era.

This energetic performance depicted the antics of the be-bop students from Rydell High. The plot revolved around a clique of students, known as the Pink Ladies and the T-Birds. They determined the rites of passage into their social circle for a new, very innocent student, Sandy, played effectively by Debra Messing. Their interference affected her romance with Danny, portrayed superbly by Gregg Ladas.

Grease also featured show-stopping dance numbers, choreographed by former student Marianne Sarazen, which delighted the audience — young and old alike. Musical numbers like "We Go Together", "All Choked Up", and "It's Raining On Prom Night" left everyone clapping and wishing for more. Once again, under the able directions of Mr. James Metcalfe, the Drama Club produced a smash hit!

Harvest Collection — A Fall Fashion Show

It's October 15, 1985. A mixture of parents and students fidget uncomfortably in their hard seats. As the hour of the show grows closer, young and old alike grow more and more impatient. Watches are checked; hey, it's time for the show to start! A moment later the lights dim . . . and the 1985 Fall Fashion Show begins.

The Fall Fashion Show has become something of a tradition over the last few years, providing entertainment for both the audience and the student models.

A few weeks earlier students had lined up in the cafeteria for their opportunity to appear on the high school stage in the latest in fall and winter fashions. Clothes had been borrowed from many stores in and around East Greenwich. The styles ranged from sporty and casual to the refined elegance of formal dress.

The Harvest Collection was a tremendous success. The evening definately had style.

The Welcome Freshman Dance Starts the Year off Right

On Friday, the thirteenth of September, the East Greenwich High School cafeteria was filled with the excitement and anticipation of many students. For freshmen it was a new experience and for upperclassmen a tradition, signifying to all the beginning of a new year.

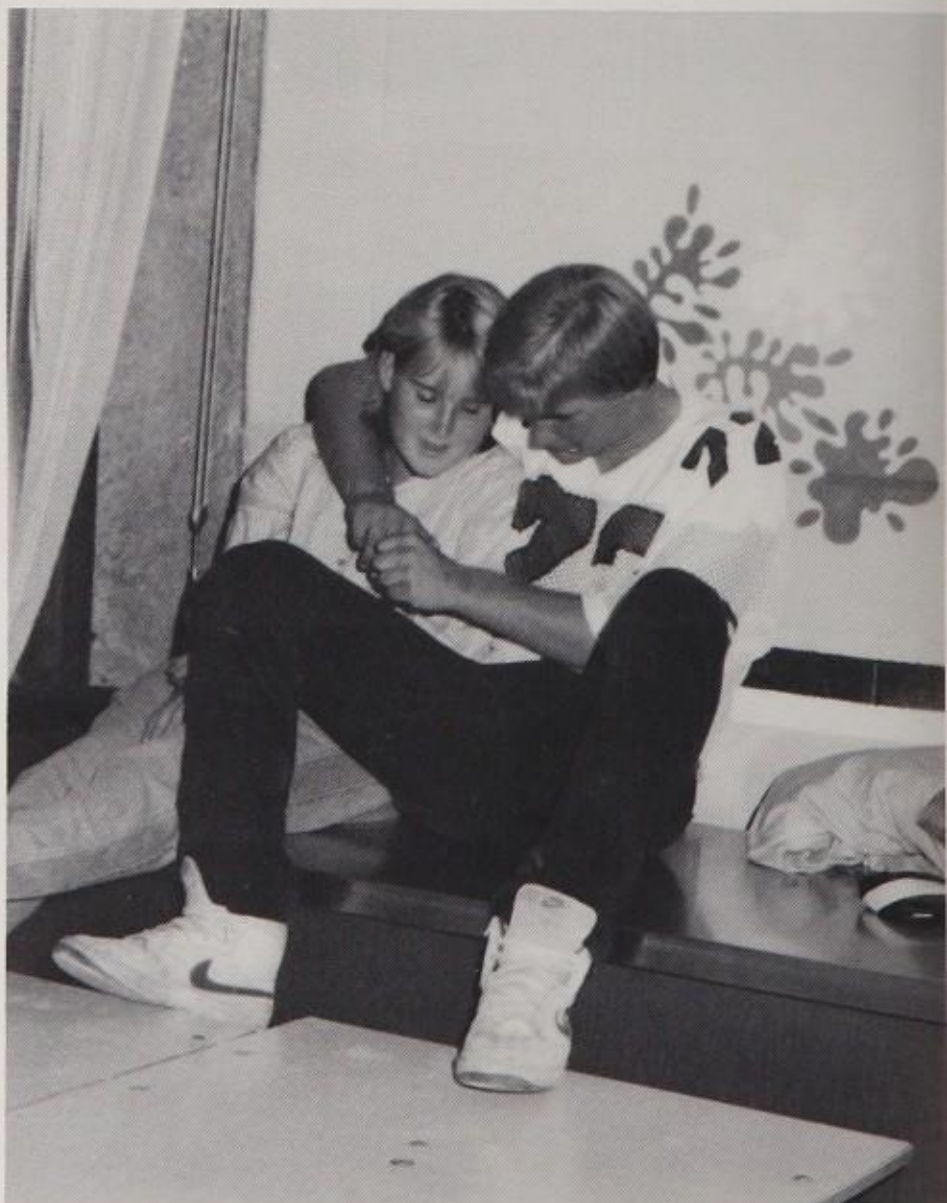

The music, provided by 2000 Sounds, added greatly to the wonderful atmosphere and success of the dance. This particular Friday the thirteenth was characterized by ecstatic faces and good cheer. The happiness was not only shared by those who attended but also by the senior class who sponsored the first successful social event of the year.

Homecoming Marred By Controversy

Many people, teachers as well as students, had been looking forward to this year's Homecoming Week. Teams composed of the school's classes and clubs had been preparing for their competition with a fervor. Things began well, as the Crimson narrowly defeated the Spectrum in the quiz bowl. Next, in the indescribable surprise contest, the seniors scored a decisive victory. Their domination continued with a convincing win in the race.

Unfortunately, this is where the trouble began. One night before the Air Band competition, the Spectrum act was threatened with disqualification. This stemmed from the fact that they had substituted two players. Even though these substitutions had been made several weeks in advance, and the team had been constant throughout Homecoming, a rule had been broken which forbade making changes after a certain deadline, which the Spectrum had certainly missed. Despite the controversy, there were some grand performances on Air Band night. Unforgettable were the Gravelins' performance of "Just a Gigolo" and some faculty members' rendition of "We're Not Gonna Take It". The seniors with their smash, "Ding! Dong! The Witch Is Dead" capped yet another victory and clinched first place in the Spirit Week standings.

In Saturday's football game, which had been preceded by a parade, the Avengers shut out Pilgrim. Later that evening, the traditional Homecoming Dance took place. During ceremonies, Angela Macera was crowned Homecoming Queen. The second runner-up was Debra Messing, and the first runner-up was Robin McKenney.

While the week's activities proved enjoyable for all, homecoming ended in tragedy. The Student Council, citing a wide spectrum of issues, announced that they would no longer sponsor Homecoming. Although teachers met to discuss its fate, Homecoming 1985 will remain forever tainted.

Sadie Hawkins '85

On November 15, the traditional Sadie Hawkins decorations were taken out, and the E.G.H.S. cafeteria was transformed into Dogpatch, U.S.A. As usual, many couples, dressed in jeans, plaid, patches, bandanas, and suspenders showed up for an evening of fun and dancing. This year's L'il Abner and Daisy Mae were Cory Paige and Elissa Coutalakis. Runners-up, best man and maid of honor, were Andre Spitzer and Darcie Cournoyer. Year after year, the Sadie Hawkins dance lives up to its reputation. The Student Council should be commended for its success.

1985 Holiday Dance: a Dynamic Event

On yet another Friday the thirteenth, a large number of students flowed into our cafeteria to exhibit their holiday spirit. The dance, sponsored by the Crimson and Spectrum, proved both entertaining and festive. This was due in large part to the music of Al, Tony, and John, better known as Dynamic Sounds. These dee-jays, who specialize in playing the long versions of current hits, said of East Greenwich High, "Those kids are great! They're almost as weird as we are!"

Noted Spectrum advisor, Mr. Pinheiro, "The music seemed good to me, although it was loud. I've never seen so many "blasters" in my life." All in all, those who looked forward to this event with anticipation were not disappointed.

Sweetheart Dance Attracts A Small But Festive Crowd

The annual Sweetheart Dance, held on the very appropriate evening of February 14, proved to be an enjoyable event for all in attendance. In the past, this dance has been either stag or exclusively for couples. However, this year it was open to couples and everyone else who was lured to the beautifully decorated cafeteria.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Donna DeLeone as the Sweetheart Queen. Interestingly, the usual judging process was not used this time. Instead, each member of the Sweetheart Court received a box containing a rose. The winner's box was the only one that housed a white rose. In addition to Donna, the other members of the court included Paula McNulty, Elise Golden, Beth Alfano, Tara Bradshaw, Dianne Bellino, Nicole Anderson, Stephanie Hoxie, Jen DeSalvo, and Alicia Warschauer.

Unfortunately, the turnout was not too large, as the 7th, the original date which was set for the dance, had to be scratched due to a snowstorm. Those who did go, though, were quite impressed, especially with "the vast array of pastries on the table." In addition, John Biagioni, describing the crowd, stated, "It was small but rowdy, just the way I like it."

“Tender years is the Theme of the 1985 Junior Prom”

Tradition was broken and a precedent set with the Junior Prom of 1985. In the previous years, couples went to the prom intending to relish the evening by dancing the night away. But on May 17, 1985, the evening began with a delicious dinner and flowed into a romantic atmosphere at the newly redecorated Quidnessett Country Club. Its beautiful interior was complemented by elegant gowns and sharp tuxedos. The music was provided by “Chaser” who performed the “Tender Years” ballad a number of times during the night, to everyone’s liking.

The crowning of the Prom Queen was a moment not to be overlooked, and will surely not be forgotten by Prom Queen Patty Augustine and her escort John Mernick. The thrill, and excitement of this kind of evening did not come to an end as couples left the country club. A breakfast and music were provided at the East Greenwich Fireman’s Hall until the very early hours of the morning to make the night of the 1985 Junior Prom a cherished memory of these “Tender Years” for everyone.

Scott Anderson — Crimson's Outstanding Athelete

Each year, the Crimson picks an outstanding athlete from the senior class who best shows talent, motivation, sportsmanship, and versatility on the playing field. The 1985-86 outstanding athlete is Scott Anderson.

A three-sport standout, Scott has been active in athletics throughout his four years at the high school. In the fall, Scott could be seen on the football field, where he excelled as an offensive lineman. During his Junior year, he played an integral part in the Avengers' incredible undefeated season. Although injured during part of his senior year, Scott's desire and motivation showed through as he battled back and completed a successful season.

As a member of the Avenger basketball squad, Scott was a lone bright spot in a very dismal year. His aggressive playing at the forward position earned him election to 3rd team All-Division. Additionally, in his junior year, Scott started at first base for the varsity baseball team.

Scott, or Ando, as he is called by friends, has always given everything he could on and off the field. He is truly an outstanding athlete and individual.

1985 Football Team Continues Winning Tradition

The Avenger gridders finished their season with seven wins and two losses, their only defeats coming at the hands of Coventry and Westerly, each by one point. Even with these two setbacks, East Greenwich had an outstanding season. Due to the performance of captains Chris Hanley and Ernie Torres, Mark Cicchini, Tom Piccirilli, Bill Kershaw, Mike Kiernan, and Chris Sceery, both the offense and defense were highly rated in the state. The highlight of the season was a 33-0 rout of Rogers, which played in the Class A Super Bowl.

The Avengers' coaches deserve much of the credit for an outstanding season. Coaches Kershaw, Swanson, Newcombe, Garvey, and Benburg always had the Avengers well prepared. A special tribute could go to Coach Phil Garvey, whose freshman team finished second in the state, giving hope for a promising Avenger future.

East Greenwich finished second in Class B-one. A number of injuries kept the Avengers from playing at top form. The team's future looks promising with returning players such as Mark Cicchini, Bill Bockoven, Brian Asay, Joe Green, and Brian Field. The team's graduating seniors are: Tom Piccirilli, Bill Kershaw, Anthony Caronia, Jeff "Orky" Cameron, Ernie Torres, Scott Anderson, John Mernick, Chris Sceery, Chriss-Sceery, Chris Hanley, Mike Kiernan and Rich "Bear" Judkins.

Congratulations to the following players who earned All State honors. Representing East Greenwich on the First Team were Chris Hanley and Mark Cicchini.

All in all, it was a tremendous season, in what was supposed to be a building year. Let's hope for many more from future EG gridders.

Field Hockey Team Enters New Era

In 1985, the girls' field hockey team had one of their most successful seasons ever. The team, guided by newcomer Katy Syostak, compiled a winning record while only sustaining four losses. This qualified them for a berth in the playoffs, where they placed third, good enough for a divisional title. Unfortunately, graduation will rob the team of Diane Lallo, Diane Megredichian, and Kim McKenney. Also sorely missed will be co-captains Angie Macera and Claudi Russo.

Four Lady Avengers were named to All-Division teams. Diane Lallo and Claudia Russo earned the honor of being picked for second team All-State, and Laura Smith and Shery Grilli were picked for the third team All-State.

Look for the Lady Avengers to continue their successes in 1986.

Avenger Soccer Team Barely Make The Playoffs

The East Greenwich High School Avenger Soccer Team was strong this year, though its final 6-10 record does not show it. Under the guidance of Coach Carpenter and Assistant Coach Cronin, and through the leadership of team captains Ken Knox, Dave Sarazen, and Joel Smith, the booters entered the season with hard working attitude. The offensive charge of the team was led by the brilliant play of seniors Dave Sarazen, and Joel Smith, and junior Jack DiNicola. Assisting them at halfback was an exceptional player — Jon Cain, who buttressed the offensive charge. Holding the line of defense at fullback with his tenacious performance was senior Ken Knox.

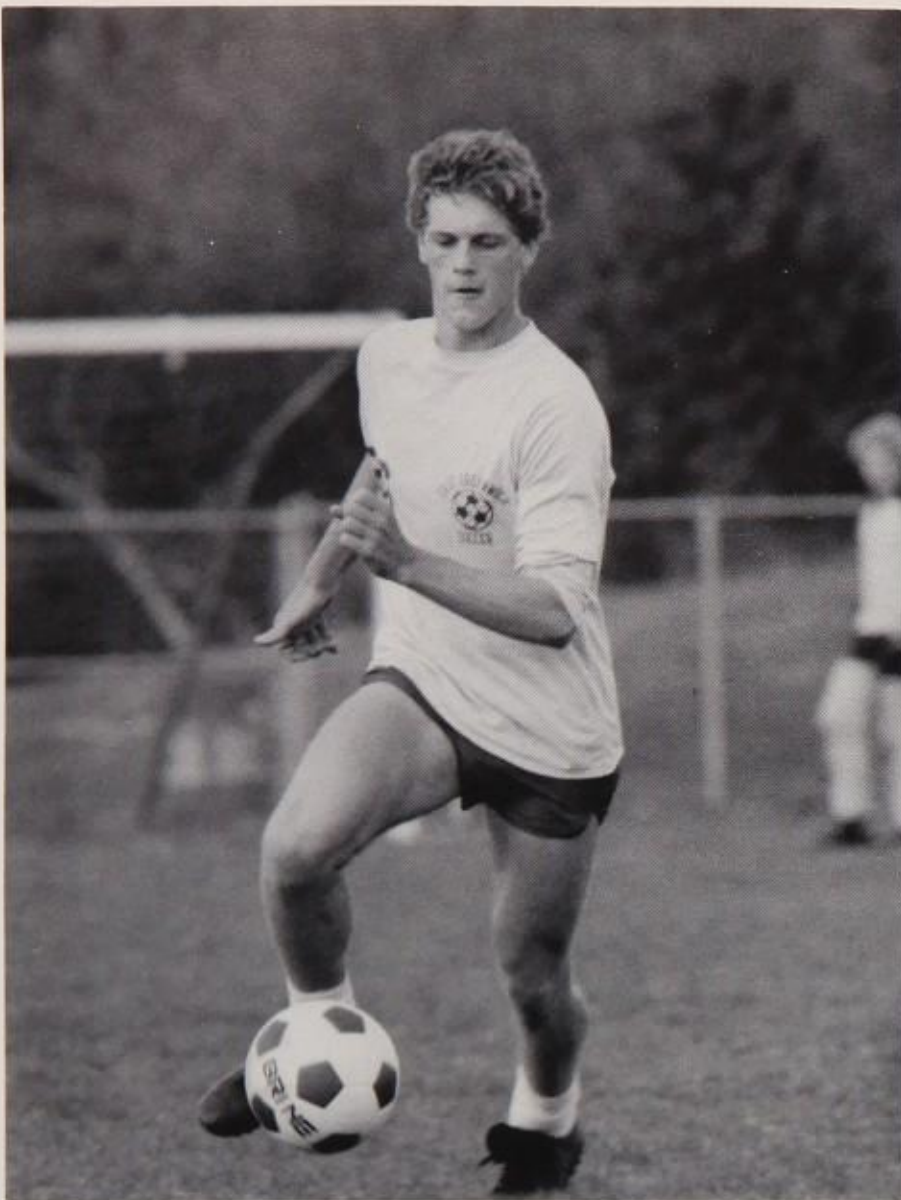

It was because of their outstanding play that seniors Knox and Sarazen were awarded first team All-Division honors, and Jon Cain with his hard work and exceptional skills obtained a second team All-Division award. Another strong player, Jack DiNicola, was awarded an honorable mention.

The outstanding play and hard work of seniors Jay Lynch, Eric Andren, and Dean Sullivan will be missed next year, but the season was very much a learning one and it will provide the returning players with valuable experience. Sophomores Chris DiIuro, and Rob Dobryznski should benefit as a result, and have promising futures in Avenger soccer. Junior Andrew Kaiser's brilliant tending of goal sparked the team throughout the season, and he should prove to be very valuable next year.

Netwomen Post An Undefeated Season

As usual, the East Greenwich High School girls' tennis team had a very good season this year, finishing with an undefeated 12-0 record. Under the experienced coaching of Paul Wragg, the team made it all the way to the state semi-finals where they lost by one point to eventual state champs, Mount. St. Charles, a perennial powerhouse. Twice, the girls defeated North Kingstown, the favored team this year.

Leading the way for the Avengers were Paula McNulty and Kathy Sargent, both sophomores. These two outstanding players rotated between the number one and two spot throughout the season, and both ended up with first team All-Division honors. Lisa Krasnoff and Cheryl Wolfe were both strong at the number three and four spot, respectively.

The doubles teams were also very strong. The number one team of Stacy Budnick and Kelly Kindell and the number two team of Shelby Cook and Katie Donohue were both undefeated and both received first team All-Division awards.

Because this year's team is very young with players returning next year, the loss of seniors Lynette Murray, Lisa Krasnoff, and Karen Rice should not hurt the team very much. In fact, the Lady Avengers might be moving up to Class A next year, a big step in advancing the Avenger tennis program and something which should make the entire school proud.

Cross Country — A Respectable Year

The 1985 Boys Cross Country team finished their season with a very respectable showing. Led by Coach Norm Monks, seven of the team members went to the State Meet at the University of Rhode Island.

Senior Captains Mark Timperly and John McGinness both helped to lead the team to a fourth place finish in the Class D meet, along with junior runners Greg Lembree and Alex Chackes.

Although the Harriers will be losing seniors Timperly and McGinness as well as Joel Chackes and John Biagioni, they have all the potential for a very successful season next year.

Lady Avengers Run Like The Wind

The Avenger girls' Cross Country team, under the direction of Coach Vincent Petisce, ran their best season ever. They went undefeated (11-0) in their regular season, earning the Western Division Championship. They also won the Kent County title and placed second in the state for class C division.

The team was led by very strong and dedicated runners including Karen Purcell and Kara Carlson, co-captains. The entire team qualified for the state meet and placed a respectable sixth place. The outstanding seniors, Karen Purcell, Kara Carlson, and Florence Sehl, led the team through example. Purcell, along with freshman Stephanie Balkcom, qualified for the New England championship meet.

Stephanie Balkcom, an excellent freshman runner, earned first team All-Division honors. Florence Sehl, a senior, and Jen Eilers, a freshman, both received second team honors. Senior Karen Purcell was awarded second team All-State, a great reward for an outstanding season.

Despite the loss of the few seniors, the Lady Avengers should do very well next year with the up and coming Stephanie Balkcom, Jen Eilers, Sarah Vallely, Erin Searles, Mary Finley, and Lauren Grilli.

Young Wrestlers Enjoy Modest Success

The Wrestling team, although very young, had a successful rebuilding season this year, and the future looks very bright. Tri-Captains Dean Sullivan, Ken Knox, and Aaron Boesch led the team to a 3-9 record. A great deal of improvement was shown by the team despite their losing record. Senior John Biagioni and Junior Ed Peretta were two of the wrestlers who improved greatly.

It was the freshmen, however, who carried the team for most of the season. This experienced group of freshmen was led by Paul Metcalf, Jim Megridichian and Damon Popella. Megridichian and Popella both placed in the Sectional Tournament at the end of the year, with Megridichian going on to capture fifth place in the State Tournament.

Coaches Bob Buscher and Joe Amato had some reasons to be proud, although not as many as they would have liked. The future looks bright for the Avenger Wrestling program.

Girls Basketball Struggles

The 1985-1986 girls basketball team had a losing season this year, ending with a record of 3-13. Even though they did not have much success on the court the team coaches, Mr. Brenner and Mr. Wragg, feel the team made improvements especially during the second part of the season. Also much consideration should be given to the fact that the team was a young one with only one returning senior.

The team was led by tri-captains Paula McNulty, Kris Koutalis and Chris Uhrin, who gave exceptional leadership throughout the season. Much effort and good playing is credited to sophomores Jen Baker and Nicole Palmero and to freshman Stephanie Balkcom. The team will only be losing one player, Chris Uhrin, to graduation. Also Kris Coutalakis earned herself a position on the 3rd team All-Division Class B. For next year Coach Brenner has hopes of making the play-offs and is looking forward to the returning efforts of Sue Burnett, Julie Gobel and Sara Valley.

Almost A Winless Season . . . Again

The 1985-86 Boys Varsity Basketball team had a very tough year finishing 1-17 in the class B league. During the first half of the season, the Avengers beat only Tolgate in the Warwick Holiday Tournament, while in the second half of the season, the team won only the last game against Westerly.

Under the direction of Veteran Coach Ray Pouliot, this year's squad lost some tough games including several overtimes. Co-captains Mark Cicchini and Scott Anderson never failed to get one hundred percent from the players. Lost to graduation will be Scott Anderson, Anthony Sako, Chris Young, and Mike Kiernan.

Looking towards next season, there are many players with varsity experience returning. These along with some talented junior varsity players should produce a better record and possibly could make the playoffs.

Avenger Hockey Shows Promise for Future

As you look at the 4-10 record of the 1985-1986 Avenger Icemen, it seems to be a losing one; but if one looks more closely, the season was not a total loss. Coaches Harvey Bennett and Dave Nichols worked well with the young team.

The team, although a relatively strong one, lacked a great deal of seniority. The only senior, Jeff Hebert, provided tremendous offense for the team, but it was not quite enough. The juniors, Pete Chabot, Drew Cummings, John Drew, and Greg Lembree added plenty to the squad.

The goalies, Bill Trask and Greg Ryan both played well despite a lack of experience. One factor that hurt the team was their inexperience. It was only Trask's second year and Ryan's first, but these two both show great promise for Avenger hockey.

Next season is sure to be a better one for the Icemen, due to the experience and depth of the returning players.

Administration Continues Excellence

As the administration rolls into its eighth year, East Greenwich High School's curriculum will be looking at a modest increase in academic policies. These include the fields of college-preparatory courses and especially in the computer-generated area.

East Greenwich High School remains one of the top scorers in the Scholastic Aptitude Tests in Rhode Island, and the administration would like to see students keeping the momentum going well into the future.

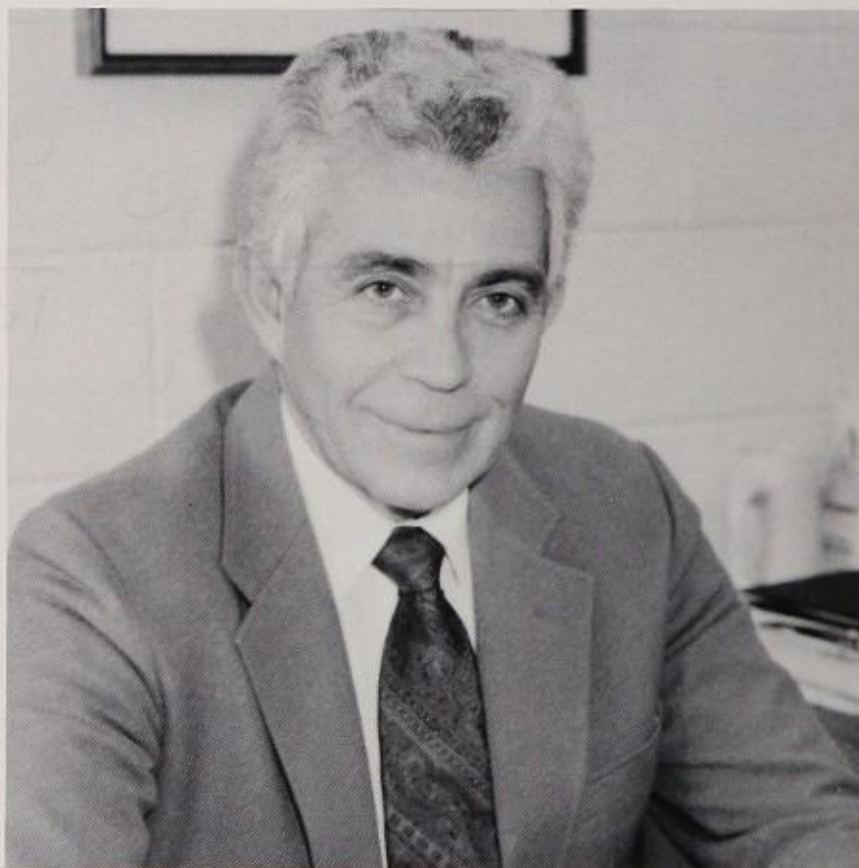

In speaking about the future, Mr. Coppinger believes that continuing the strength in the computer field will prepare the students for the computer explosion sweeping the business world. Several new courses in computer will be offered soon.

"The Introduction to computers course," states Mr. Coppinger, "may someday offered at the kindergarten level, and with the course of time, who knows what will be going on with computers."

Above all, East Greenwich High School still remains a top school in the country. "The ideas are obvious, but the most important factor contributing to this is the greatness in the students," says Mr. Lepry, "with their outstanding cooperation, East Greenwich High School can be the best there is."

A Dynamic Tradition

Traditionally, the East Greenwich High School English Department has been a favorite of students. One need not look far for the reasons. Headed by Doris Roderick, the English Department strives to instill an appreciation of literature, a facility in modern writing techniques, and a proficiency in reading comprehension. These objectives are clearly pronounced in the numerous programs that students are free to select from. Courses such as Creative Writing, Mark Twain, Speech, Shakespeare, Books To Films, and English IV add a welcome note of diversity into anyone's schedule.

This year promises to be one of a dynamic quality. By the completion of the 1985-1986 school year, the "Research Paper Guide" will be passed out. Next year, a new guide will be implemented. One of the more welcome alternations is the elimination of footnotes.

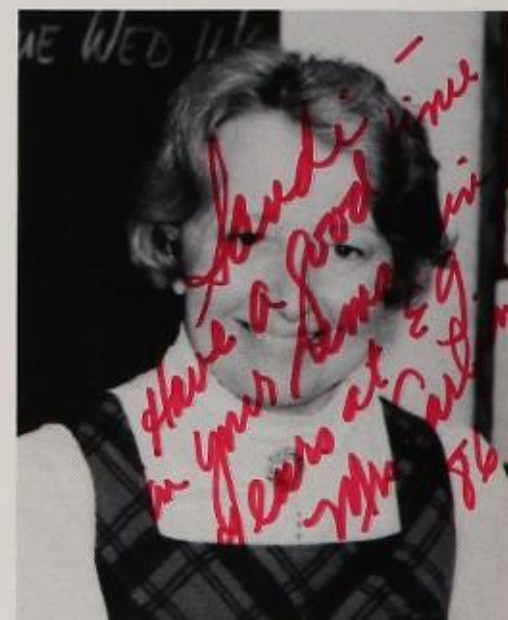

The vigor and dedication that the English Department demonstrates makes a deep impression upon the students. As the years' progress, we become more aware of the necessity of a strong English background. The East Greenwich High School English Department is committed to continue its dynamic tradition of excellence.

Success Through Challenge

As we enter the 21st century, a firm understanding of basic mathematical principles is more necessary than ever before. In acknowledgement, the East Greenwich High School Mathematics Department, under the able leadership of Simeone Parente, prepares students for the challenging but rewarding times ahead.

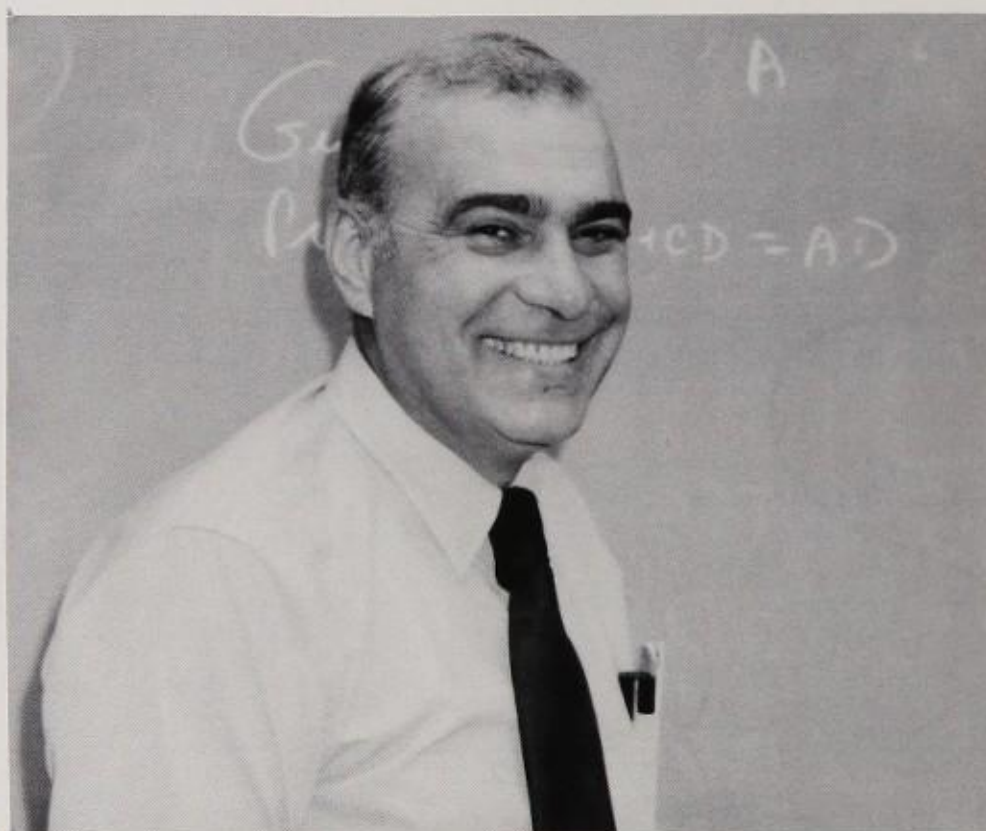

From foundation courses like Algebra and Geometry to more complex subjects like The Calculus and Trigonometry, the understanding of the relationship between the abstract mathematical equations and their practical uses in the real world is stressed.

The ability to analytically and logically think is another basic skill that the Mathematics Department instills in its students. The Computer Science Department, integrated into the Mathematics Department, is constantly changing and improving. With the advent of new programs and better equipment, a growth in popularity is inevitable.

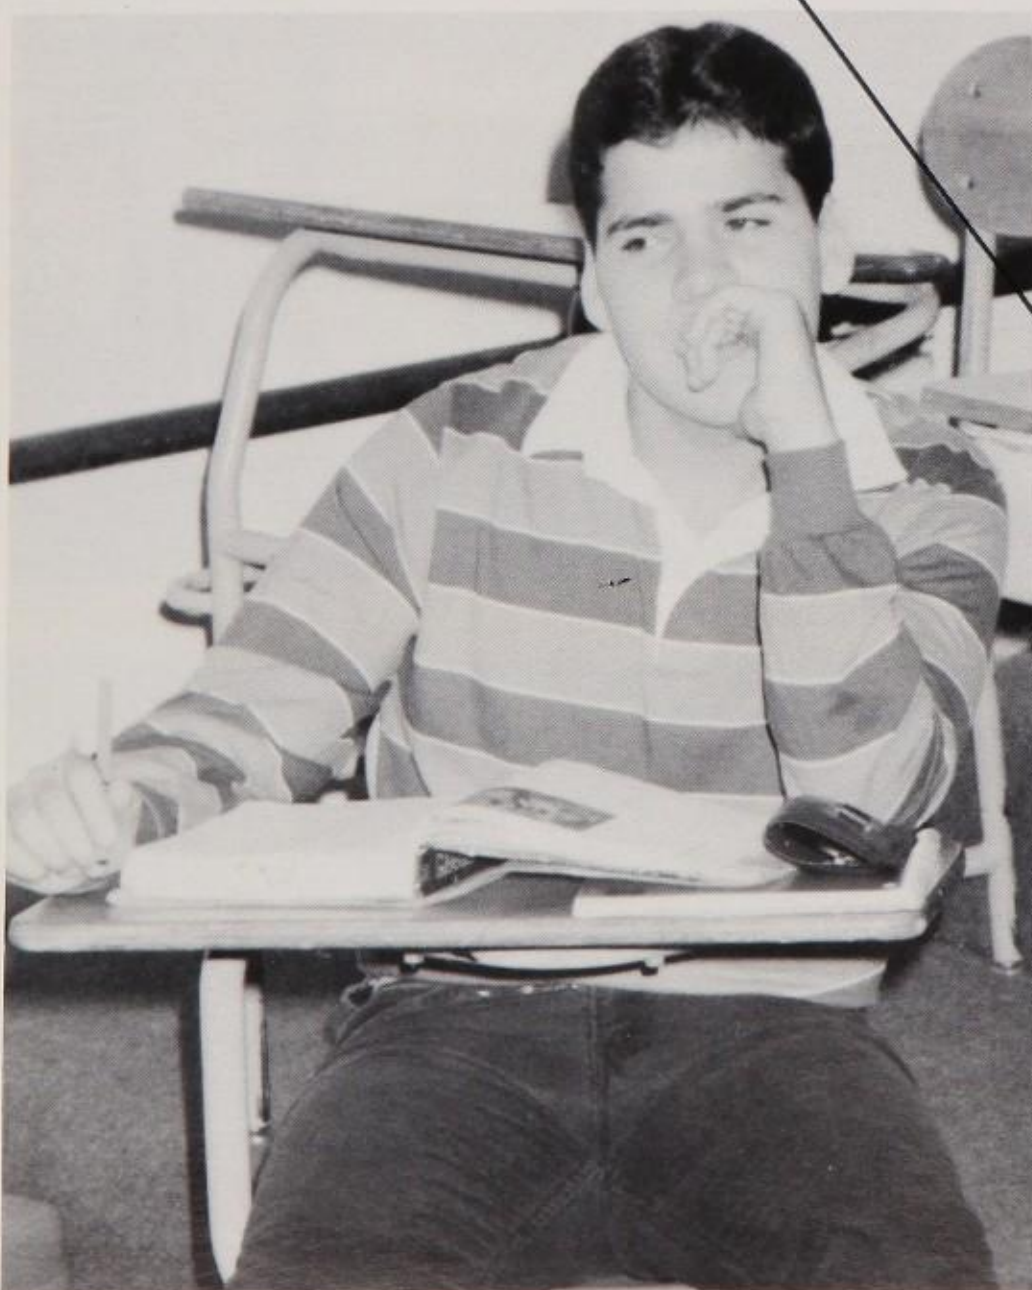

The East Greenwich High School Mathematics Department, through its enthusiasm and determination, imparts a certain spirit in the students. This spirit, in conjunction with several basic skills, assures us of success over the mathematical challenges that the next century will present.

Science Grinds Out Another Great Year

The Science Department of East Greenwich High School has maintained its high standards for another year. Frank Hand, the department head, and the other teachers in the science faculty have continued to strive for excellence.

This year, computers have been introduced to the students as part of labs and class. Computers allow the student to correct procedures and answers to various problems. Also, a grant has been given to the Science Department for the purpose of instructing teachers on the educational use of computers.

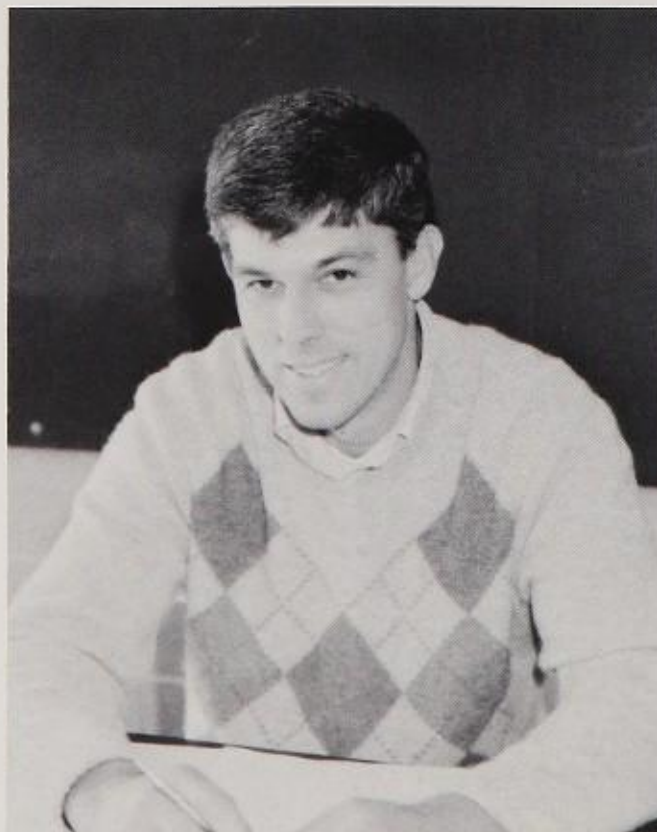

All of this makes the Science Department an outstanding part of the East Greenwich High School curriculum. A bright future is expected with many new improvements and changes.

Social Studies Strives for Success

The Social Studies Department of East Greenwich High School has much to offer its students. The department requires three years of studies which include American Law and Government, Western Civilization, and U.S. History.

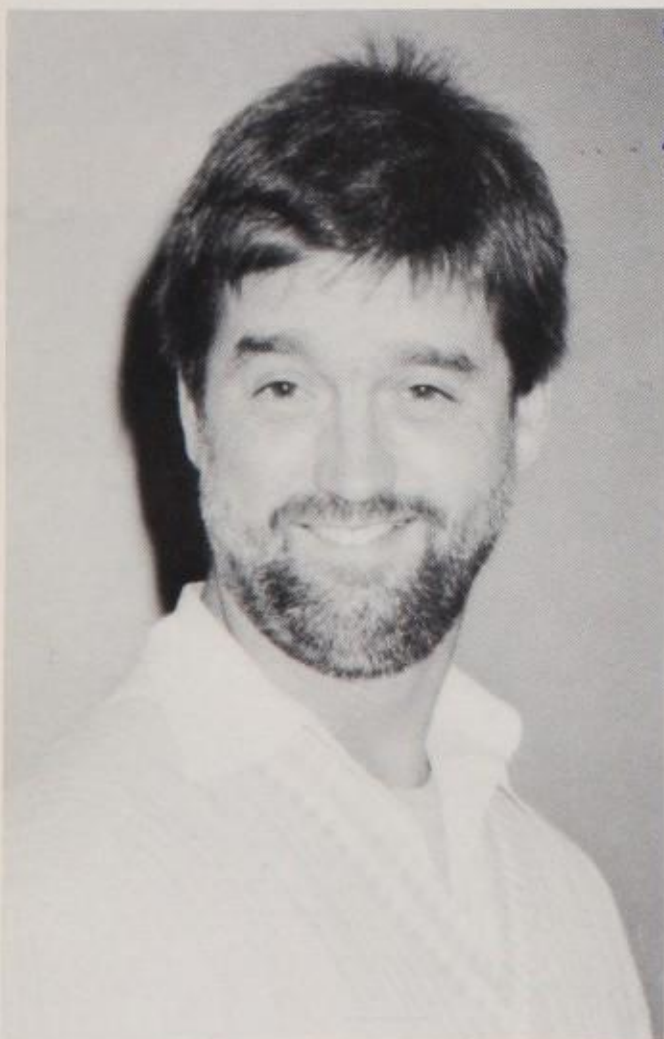

Besides these courses there are many more that help to prepare students for the future. Applied Economics is a two year old course that is already being offered for next year. The course's emphasis is on capitalism, and is sponsored by Junior Achievement. In the class, students learn economic theory through practical application. This course is different from the basic social studies format, and it is hoped that more classes such as this will be brought to East Greenwich High School.

There are also extra-curricular activities which help to broaden students' knowledge about the world around them. Model Legislature and In-Site are two programs that do just that. They help high school students to learn more about the ways of our government. Century III and Hugh O'Brien are competitions that determine who demonstrates leadership ability.

Through these numerous, insightful, and interesting classes and activities, students at East Greenwich High School are being offered nothing but the very best.

A Year Of Change And Progression

The Foreign Language Department here at East Greenwich High School has continued to provide an exciting and diverse curriculum for its French, Spanish, and Latin students. Whether they are performing in a Spanish commercial, translating Virgil's Aeneid, or acquainting themselves with the Three Musketeers, students participate in one of the finest programs in the state.

Like foreign countries, the language department is always moving and changing. The addition of new Latin teacher, Mrs. Melhman, is one of these variations. The French students had the exciting (and let's not forget, educational) opportunity to visit Paris in the spring — the trip was enjoyed by all. Congratulations to the Foreign Department for providing such a unique learning atmosphere.

Three Individuals Minding Their Own Business

As well as offering diverse courses advantageous in everyday life, the Business Department equips students for the world of computers. Over the past several years the department has expanded its program, as students have indicated a need to gain knowledge in the practical skills.

The year marked the birth of Recordkeeping, a well-received course which is designed to prepare students for entry-level positions. In addition, Word Processing was offered once again. Students in this class are trained on the Apple IIe, in addition to the Digital Dec Mate II computer.

Also, on April 8 the department sponsored a field trip to the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston. The dedication of Mrs. Philips, Mrs. Ramierz, and Mr. Depastina truly has provided a fascinating and varied curriculum for all.

The Fine Arts Department is Still Growing

The fine arts department continues to grow, repeating its pattern of success, activity, and prestige. This year the department received many honors, participated in many competitions, and added and expanded courses.

New courses were Art History which offered three college credits and the popular Design. The Photography was expanded and filled rapidly.

Competitions and festivals included the U.R.I. Invitational Concert Band Competition, various jazz competitions and festivals, and such competitions as the Regional Scholastic Art Show. One major band competition attend was the Appleblossom Festival held in Virginia, one of the largest festivals in the country. The department and its students continue to claim many top awards.

Highlighting the departments year was its assistance in the celebration of Rhode Island's three hundred and fiftieth anniversary. The Marching Band led the anniversary parade on New Year's Eve, and the art section participated in the Colonial Arts Festival, which was very successful with the help of consultant Kathleen Byrnes who aided the department in the festival.

I wanna hold your hand.

Home Economics Helps Students Prepare For Future

Home Economics is a comfortable learning experience which allows students to learn skills necessary in everyday life. Almost every student will have to deal with people and children on a daily basis and in the future most will have to be accustomed to a new family life.

Focusing on the future needs of students, Home Economics provides courses dealing with human relations and preparation for parenthood. Also provided in the curriculum are courses that touch upon various necessities of life, all of which are taught by Mrs. Nancy Barth. These range from food skills and child development, to sewing, housing and interior design. Because of the importance and necessity of these skills learned, we are assured that the adolescents of today will be the well educated adults and parents of tomorrow.

Industrial Arts — Something For Everyone

The Industrial Arts Department, this year run by Mr. Barbary, Mr. Linhares, and Mr. Tower, provides a wide range of courses which can easily appeal to the individual student. These courses not only allow the students to develop creatively, but also makes them better consumers. With a hands on approach to a good learning experience many students acquire life skills that will be useful in the future, especially those relating to home and auto care.

In Power Mechanics, which focuses on various machinery and their uses, also introduces students to important mechanical skills. Woodworking and Metals, both popular courses, allow students to use their creativity with either medium. Also offered, is a course in Mechanical Drawing. This course teaches the language of engineering and allows students to learn the aspects of the technical planning and designing of certain things.

Mr. Barbary feels that students, especially girls, should become aware of the learning opportunities involved within each course. Each class, although small, puts emphasis on working with the student as an individual. Because of the wide range of courses offered and valuable skills useful to many students, Industrial Arts provides something every student's interests.

Athletic Department's Facilities Expand

The long-awaited opening of the numerous athletic facilities took place this year. Among these were separate field hockey and soccer fields which meant that the Junior High would no longer have to be used. The football team got a new practice field and with the restoration of Eldrege Field, they were able to play home games under the lights. A few Friday night games were held and proved to be very popular.

Through the addition of these extensive facilities, along with consistent, excellent coaching, our athletes are now being given the best chance at success. Says Athletic Director Paul Wragg, "Things look very positive now and I think we will be quite successful in the future."

Guidance Assists in Student Endeavors

The guidance department hoped to achieve their usual exceptional performance this year, and judging by the results, they definitely have. They always seemed to be there when we needed them. They always tried to squeeze us into their crammed appointment book. And they helped us choose the best college for our most important future.

These invaluable teachers are our counselors: Mrs. Amelia Revkin, Mrs. Patricia Young, and Mrs. Constance Smayda. Each one strives to be the best "friend" she can be.

The department continues its excellence in the college-find area, and the S.A.T. grooming. They arranged more college representative meetings this year than any other, and now they are beginning to use the computer in the quest for the perfect school. The counselors are especially excited about the new developments in the conference room, now used for meetings and college research. These activities result in a very busy year.

But all this organization could not have been accomplished without the outstanding (and patient) work of Mrs. Correia, the guidance secretary.

The guidance department again achieved their great goal, guiding people to the right decisions, all in a year's work.

The Resource Department-Service Is It's Specialty

Under the leadership of Mrs. Steckler, the team of teachers, psychiatrists, and nurses assist those students whose needs cannot be met all of the time in a classroom situation. Whatever the problem may be, the faculty in the Resource Department are able to decide upon an efficient plan of instruction by means of observation testing and evaluation. In serving students' needs at East Greenwich High School, this department concentrates on achieving its basic goal — to see that the student improves his or her classroom performance, academically, as well as behaviorally.

THOUGHTS

As the waves roll in
My thoughts go out to sea
With every receding wave
Thoughts of how it might be . . .

If I did things all in a different way
Thoughts of things past that didn't stay . . .

Thought of the future
Can it ever be the same
The waves roll into shore
I'm ME once again . . .

Mia Desrosiers

The radio is on and I'm trying to listen
But I can't concentrate
The songs don't mean a thing
Not a whole lot does, anymore
It's pretty pitiful to say
But you're all I've got left the thought of you laughing and the memory of your caress are all that are sustaining me
You're my lifeline, you're my world
Now you're thinking of leaving
And all I can say is . . .
please don't go.
I don't know what I'd do without you.

It is said that when one dies, the soul remains alive.

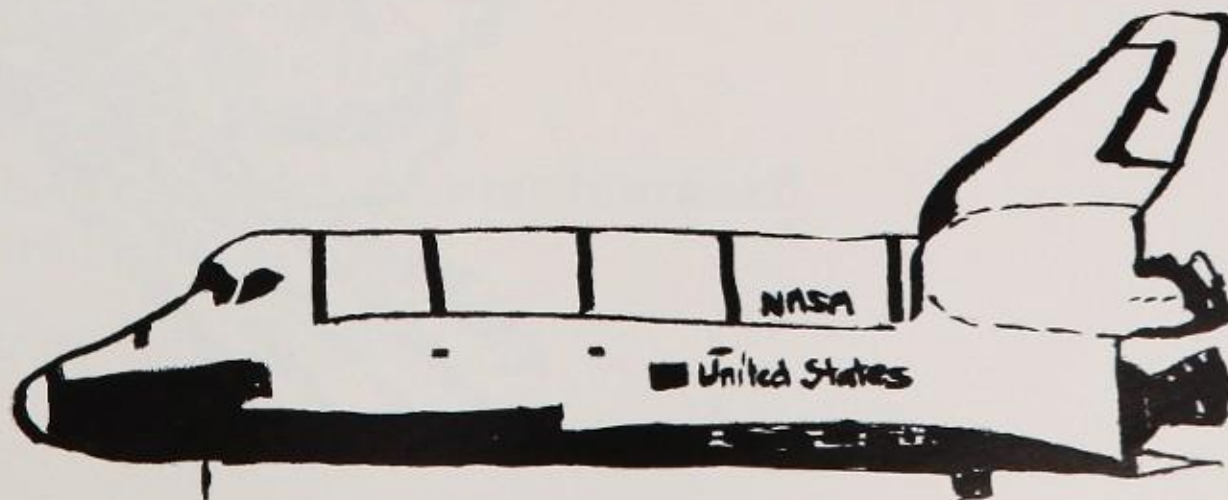

When you left us, our dreams left with you.

Yet your soul stayed behind,

Finding a new home in each of us.

CHALLENGER — you are more alive than ever in our hearts.

Erica Kamin

"Hades"

The descent to that dreadful nether
region had begun.
Guilt, hopelessness,
Defeat — they were
beginning to overcome
Me.

My soul, while still Existing, was gasping for Happiness and freedom from Fear.

Images of people and places
Were but a blur.
My one, eternal worry predominated.

Then, the question was Micraculously answered . . .
"B-," he responded.
And my journey abruptly
Terminated

N.S.J.

Those Were The Days

Those were the days.
As time passes by,
Look through the years,
And see what we had once been!
We are young and healthy;
There where be a time to right our wrongs.
And make mistakes again.

Those were the days.
The hands of time,
Pausing for no man,
Endure their lonely vigil.
Vibrant and restless,
Cherished memories are ever restrained
'til the thought occurs.

. . . Those were the days.

Ken Leung

REQUIRED COURSES

Memories of
An evening — beginning with Uninhibited desires as a result of
The brewed potency of the foam.
These are —
Required courses.

People and more people
Some finding each other.
Some futilely trying to Find relief.
The evening dwindles —
Somehow it picks up suddenly —
The pizza man returneth, and
It has begun to snow.
Friends start to transform
Into intimate acquaintances.
These are —
Required courses.

The final stage,
An auto — in and out of imaginary traffic.
Smoggy interior, odors of
Fast-food relics.
Slowing, ever slowing.
One last task — memory.
Who . . . Yes. Oh Yes.
One last turn, or is it?
Here it is. Home. Home again.
These are —
Required courses.

T. Beale

"Sam"

The car crashes,
And Samuel still sleeps.

A woman — shredded by
The sinister knife.
Yet, his slumber continues.

Children — brought to their Graves
By fire, but
Old Sam is snoozing.

Suddenly, he awakes with a start.
A senator, widely loved,
Has perished!

When's the service???
Calm your fears!
He'll be there . . .
With pajamas on.

N.S.J.

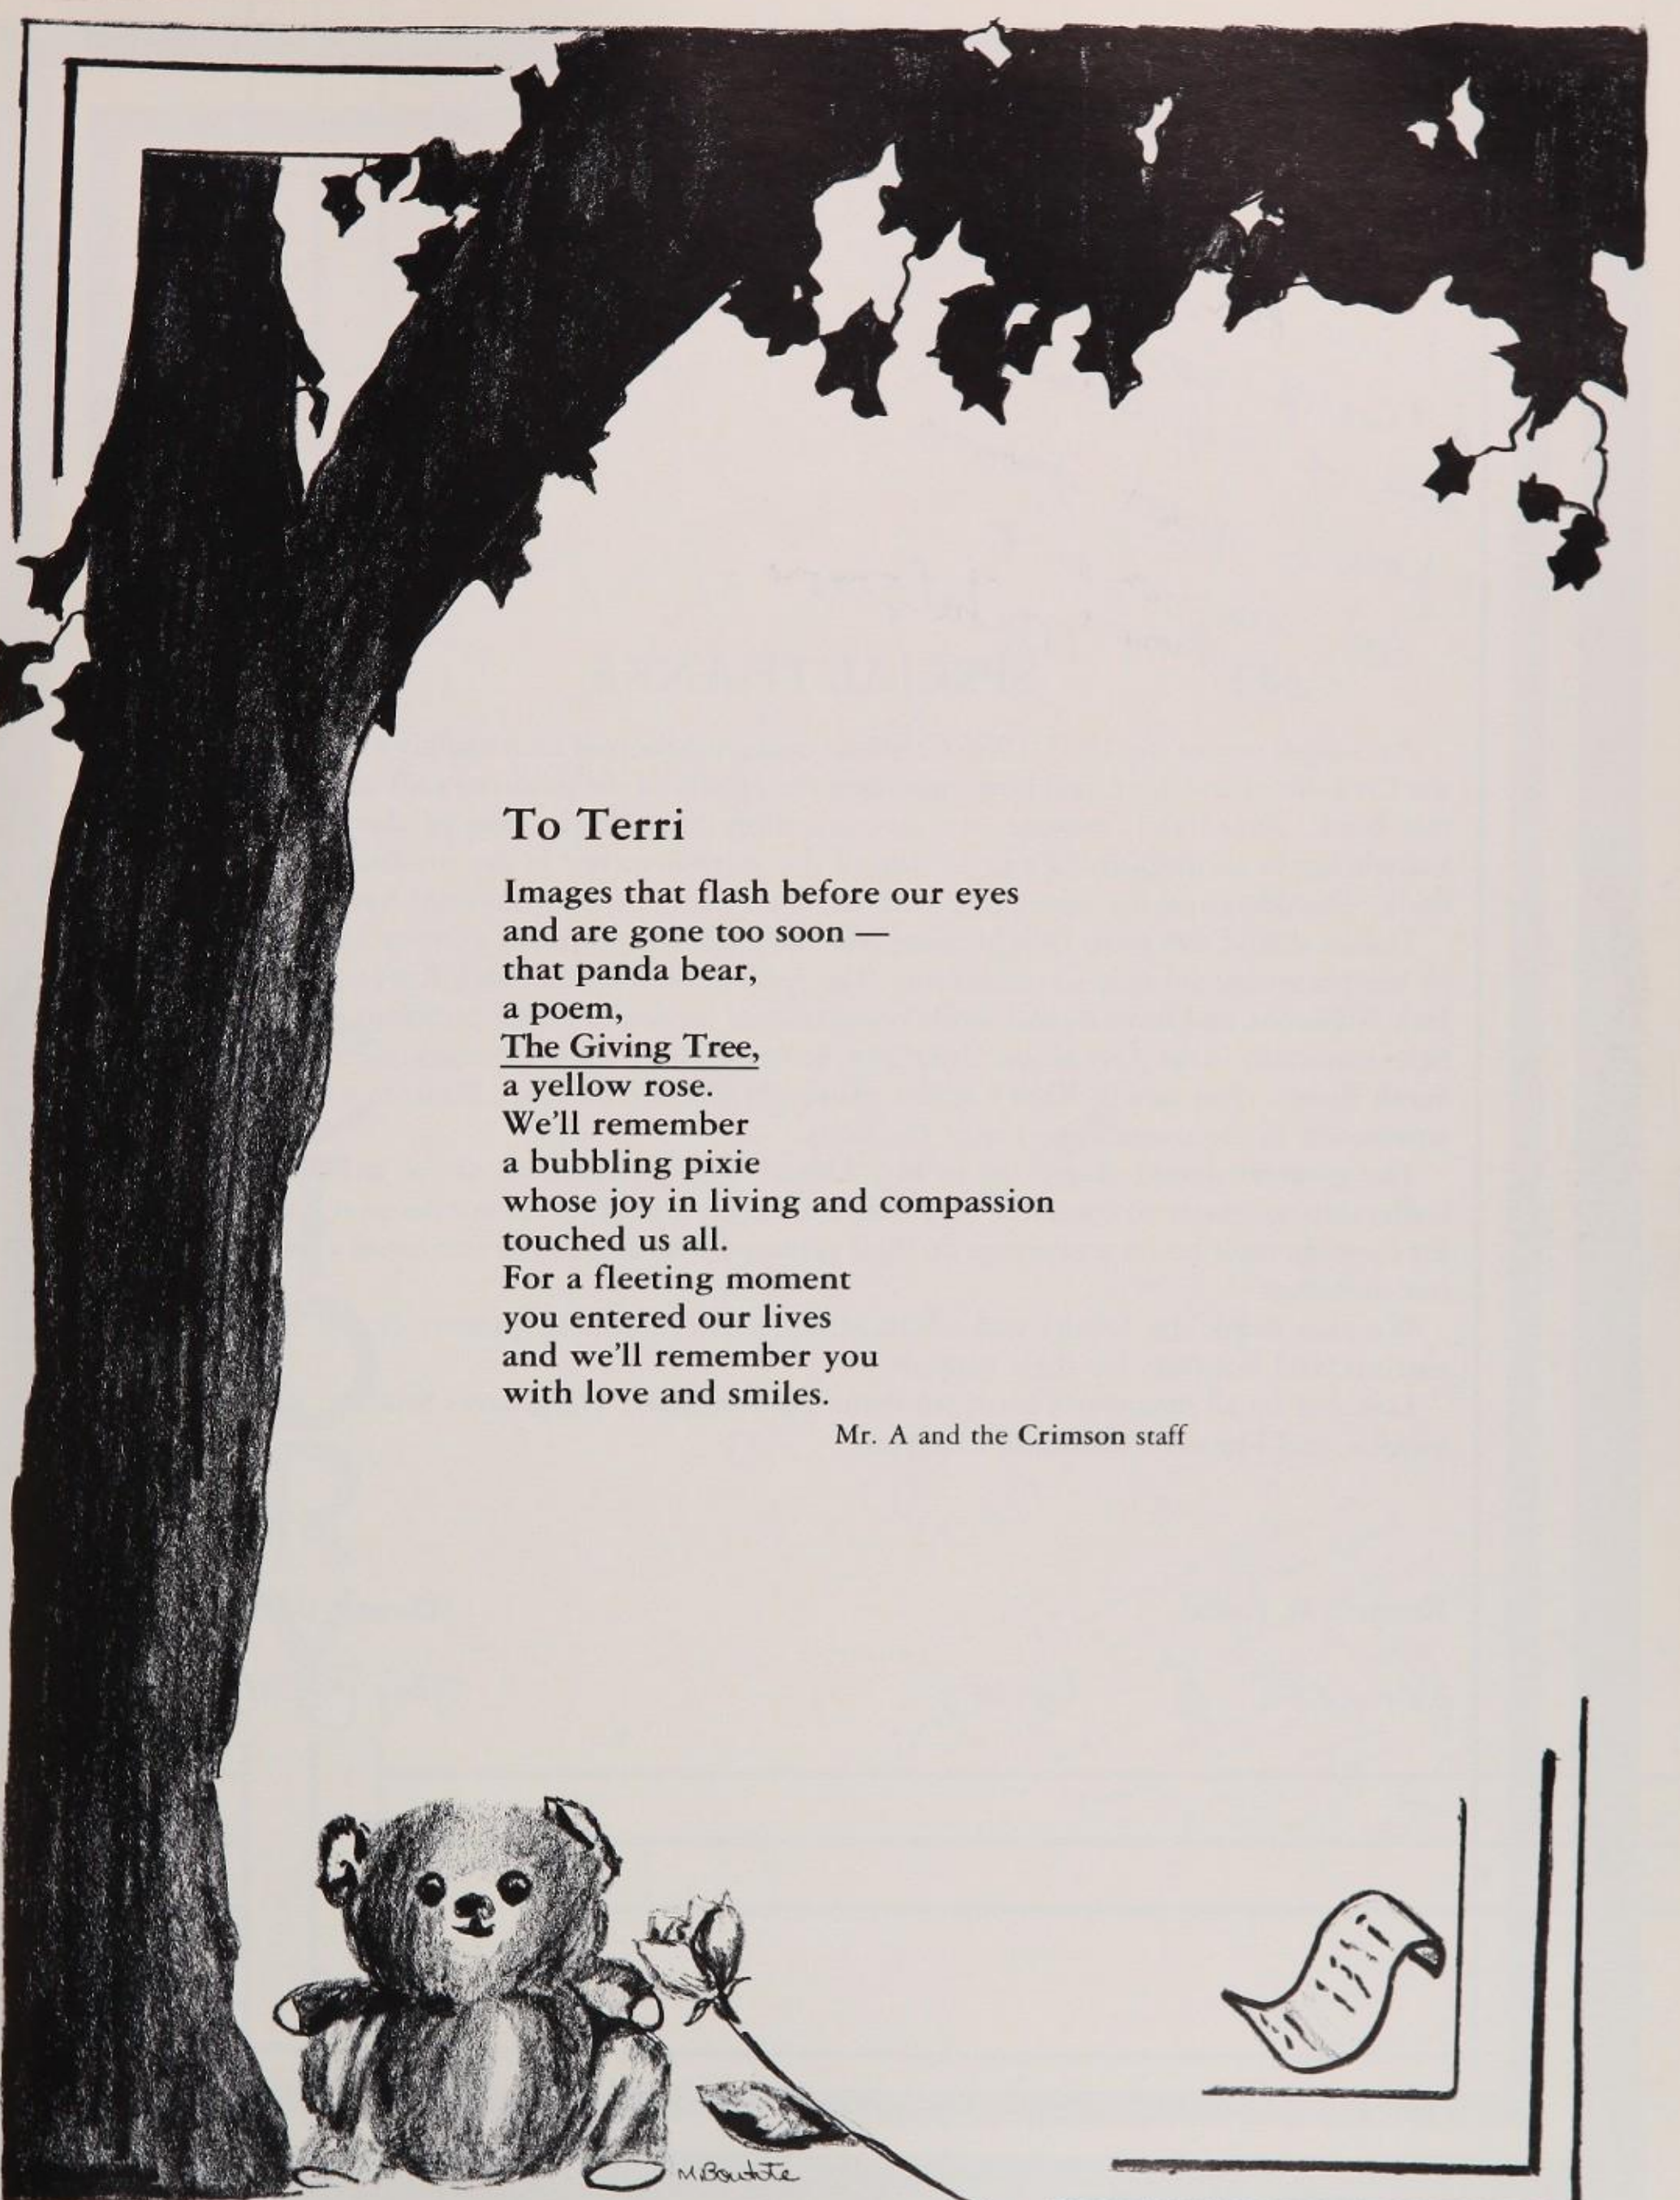

As I sit, I try to listen
The listening turns from topic to inward
I wonder about work and the next class
How can I get through this day?
The day drags on and on
Kings and Queens of far days, I listen
I listen and wander off to biology
Will I ever tag those stupid muscles?
I tune in again to learn nothing has changed
The King is still alive
I try to think, but the clock captures my eye
Time moves so slowly when watched
Kings come back to haunt me
The teacher has called my name
No problem pretending ignorance, I do not know
Glance back to the clock, a full minute gone by Concentrate on King, soon he will die
Listen to teacher explaining
The Bell, Thank God!
Only 5 more classes to go.

Amy Lewis

To Terri

Images that flash before our eyes and are gone too soon —
that panda bear,
a poem,
The Giving Tree,
a yellow rose.
We'll remember
a bubbling pixie
whose joy in living and compassion touched us all.
For a fleeting moment
you entered our lives
and we'll remember you
with love and smiles.

Mr. A and the Crimson staff

Sandi,
It was fun having a "weird" person in some of my classes.
Have a great summer
and see you as a sophomore. Mike Connors

SPECIAL THANKS

As completion of the 1985-1986 Crimson nears, it becomes increasingly evident to us, the Co-Editors-in-Chief, just how important the efforts of the editorial staff have been to this book. Bones and Sharone, the layout editors, unselfishly gave of their time and knowledge in accomplishing a great deal of the work involved in the production of this book. Thanks, guys, for putting up with us when many others would not have.

Thanks should also go to Deb Messing, who, although she distracted us many times merely by her presence, did help us immensely. The junior editors: Phil Sidel, Keryn Chirnside, Jack NiNicola, and Jerry Azzoli, while being trained for senior editor positions, were a big help, especially in the days before deadlines. Scott Nalibow, Ellen Dronzek, Kenny Leung, Sarah Rubel, Amy Lewis, Kara Carlson, Alison Nalibow, and Mary Boutote were all instrumental in the overall success of the book.

The greatest thanks should go to Mr. Alfano, who provided all of the guidance and leadership necessary to complete the book. His family also deserves our deepest gratitude for opening their house and giving up their privacy for us as many as five times a week for our meetings.

We also thank the faculty and administration of the school, parents of the editors, patrons, and boosters for their support.

Last, but by all means not least, we thank Nelson Mare, Hargreaves Studios, Richard Swiech, and Hunter Publishing Company . . .

Sandi, Hi! This has been a great year. I bet in twenty years we will still be getting letters from Mrs. Page + Evelyn with updates on Saudi Arabia for we "Washington Travelers".
I am afraid that Brett and I aren't going to work out. It is my fault. I don't care though.
Well, next year will be better.
We can beat on Freshman in between classes. Have a great summer.
Well, gotta go.

Bad Timing

Judging by these people's expressions, most of them did not know their pictures were being taken. Usually, most of these photos would not have made it into the book, but we decided to bring them to you as our special gift.

Nice expression, Ken.

This is a classic.

Bill is noted for his alert infielding.

Hi, George!

Bad Timing (continued)

Jerry; the first person to sleep while standing.

Gotcha, Ken!

Jonathan

The party dwindles
and almost everyone has left for home
We think about what we've done
the memories are almost all good.
But we wonder, if perhaps we should have done some things differently or not at all; but then we realize, that this is just a start,
just an entrance.

A beginning, not an end —
the party is over, and there is nothing we can do.

We cannot forget
what everyone and everything has meant.

They say that everything means less than zero.

But we know
just how much we care.

Well, the party is over,
but life is just starting.

June 9, 1986

Dear Sandy,

Camp is almost here! Have the time of your life! I'll be thinking about you...

Well... keep your head up ~
Learn all you can. Be real.

Take care!

(I'm always around, remember)
